"JIMMY" BRITT BEST SUMMERS

California Lightweight Defeats the Englishman in Tenth Round of Fight.

LONDON, November 2.—"Jimmy" Britt, the California fighter, defeated Johnny Summers, of England, in the tenth round to-night at Wonderland. The conditions of the fight called for ten rounds at 135 pounds. The men weighed in at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Summers had the better of the first two rounds, and Britt, seeming to realize his disadvantage, put more energy into his work and staged a much better in the succeeding rounds.

The Englishman showed great cleverness, and in the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds looked to be a winner. Britt came back, however, and fought his man to the ropes, having a considerable advantage in the ninth and tenth rounds. The American was declared the winner on points, although a considerable section of the spectators felt that the big hall questioned the referee's decision.

For several minutes there was every indication of a riot, and it was with the utmost difficulty that quiet was restored. Britt and the referee were loudly hooted as they left the hall.

A FOOTBALL "CRACK"

ODDS FAVOR TECHS OVER CAROLINA

Comparative Scores of Early Season Games Show Virginians Superior to Tarheels.

The first big university football game of the local season will be played on Broad Street gridiron next Saturday afternoon between the eleven of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and the University of North Carolina, Carolina, according to dispatches from the Tarheel State, will come to Virginia confident of victory, while odds here will favor the Techs at 2 to 1.

Carolina in its early games has shown little form, while the Polytechnic boys have fully measured up to the fondest expectations of her admirers, having won decisively every game in which they have played, except that in which they were beaten by Princeton by a remarkable score of 19 to 4.

Coach Dunlop, of Richmond College, an authority on football, whose team played Chapel Hill a 17 to 12 game on Saturday, says Carolina's weakness is poor coaching rather than a lack of material, as many of their old-seasoned players are in the line-up.

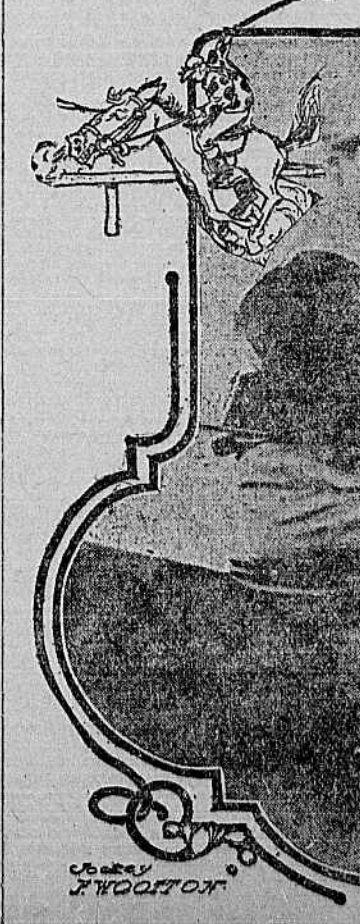

The Carolinians promise a reversal of form, and should this develop during the present week, the team from Blacksburg may be put to it to carry off the game.

Techs in Good Shape. A special from Blacksburg says: "The Tech football squad is in good condition, and little crippled from the Washington and Lee game. The men went through light practice yesterday afternoon, in order to be in trim for heavier work just prior to going to Richmond for their game with North Carolina."

The game with Carolina is regarded as one of the hardest on the schedule, and one which Blacksburg is especially anxious to win, not only on account of rivalry between the two teams, but as well as from the fact that this game gives some idea of the relative strength of the Polytechnic and the University of Virginia eleven.

"In fact, as Blacksburg and Virginia do not meet in football, and as these two teams and Carolina are classed as the best in the South, it largely depends upon the result of the Carolina game how the Techs will stand in the race for championship honors."

THIRTEEN-YEAR-OLD JOCK MAKING $15,000 A YEAR

"BEST IN SOUTH," SAYS COACH MUNN

Princeton Coach So Speaks of the Virginia Polytechnic 1908 Eleven.

Assistant Coach Jack Munn, of the 1908 Princeton eleven, in a letter to a friend here, writes of the 1908 Virginia Polytechnic Institute eleven as the strongest team, in his opinion, that ever represented a Southern university.

Coach Munn is an ex-Princeton star, and is regarded as an authority on the game. The Northern bases his statement on the plucky fight made by the Blacksburg boys in their recent game with Princeton, in which the Virginians, practically without sending in a substitute, held the New Jersey eleven to a single touchdown and one field goal, besides scoring themselves on V. B. Hodgson's beautiful drop from the field.

"If several fresh men had been sent in against Princeton during the second half," writes Munn, "the Blacksburg boys would have gone South with the scalps of their Northern foes. Hodgson's kicking was as good as any seen on the Princeton field this season."

The Blacksburg team knew the game, and went in to win. The play of the two teams was much similar, as Blacksburg's coach is an ex-Princeton player.

In their games thus far this season the Polytechnics have fully measured up to all Munn writes about them, having in their only big Southern game, that against Washington and Lee last Saturday—beaten their opponents by a big score.

The Blacksburg schedule for the latter half of the season includes games with George Washington University, November 14th; Annapolis, November 21st, and the Thanksgiving game with A. and M., of North Carolina, in Norfolk.

BOTH BOYS DISMISSED

No One Held Responsible for the Explosion Which Cost Walter Lane His Eye. Frank Nelson and Percy Lane, the two boys who were arrested for throwing into a fire the cartridge which exploded and put Walter Lane's eye, were dismissed in the Police Court yesterday morning, neither being held responsible.

The injured boy is recovering at the City Home. His sight, however, will be permanently impaired.

ENTRIES FOR THE GRAND AUTO RACE

Nineteen Cars, Representing Four Nationalities, Start on Thanksgiving Day.

NEW YORK, November 2.—The entries for the 400-mile International grand prize race of the Automobile Club of America, which is to be run on Thanksgiving Day at Savannah, Ga., closed to-day with the enlistment of nineteen cars, representing four nationalities. The race, which is to be for a gold trophy of the value of $5,000 and additional cash prizes aggregating $8,000 to drivers, will bring together the flower and pick of the famous drivers of Europe and America.

Fifteen laps of a 26.73-mile course, guarded by five regiments of militia, are to be covered.

The day before the big race nineteen small cars of lower power are to compete in a light car or vertette race over 200 miles of the circuit.

The entries in this class, which also closed to-day, consist of one French, two Italian and sixteen American cars.

The following list of entries shows the car, nationality and driver: Acme, America, Cyrus Patschke, Losier, America, Harry Michener, Simplex, America, M. Seymour, National, America, Emile Stryker, Chadwick, America, Willie Haupt, Fiat, Italy, Felice Nazzaro, Fiat, Italy, Louis Wagner, Fiat, Italy, Ralph D. Palma, Italia, Italy, Horacio Pourrier, Italia, Italy, Alexander Cagno, Italia, Italy, Giovanni Piacenza, Bayard-Clement, France, Lucien Hautvast, Bayard-Clement, France, Victor Rigal, Lorraine-Dietrich, France, Arthur Duray, Renault, France, Francois Seize, Renault, France, Lewis Strang, Benz, Germany, Victor Hemery, Benz, Germany, Rene Hanerolt, Benz, Germany, Fritz Erle.

In addition to these there is said to be a likelihood of a Mercedes being entered by Foxhall Keene, the well-known amateur sportsman, and also a third Renault, which George Robertson, the winner of this year's Vanderbilt cup, would drive. An American B-L-M and a Peugeot Panhard are also mentioned as probable starters, but the likelihood of their participating is considered slight.

AMUSEMENTS

Academy—"The Man of the Hour," Bijou—"Playing the Ponies," Majestic—Vaudeville.

"The Man of the Hour" Great. Not for many seasons has there been seen in Richmond a play of such cleverness, humor and genuine interest as "The Man of the Hour," now at the Academy last night. It is not often that the love-story drama makes or mar a stage production, but in Mr. Broadhurst's strong and place, and only helps to the strength of the picture. Men battle with men, decency grapples with graft, and the disfigurement of the story grips the very heart of the playgoer, and its action holds one's attention as it unfolds.

A political boss, strong, unscrupulous and powerful, full of rugged fearlessness, but a grifter to his heart's core, seeks for the political pascality of a great city. His choice falls on a younger, rich and of the leisure class, who has been away his time, and who has no knowledge of the politician's game.

In love with a girl who spurs him to do things, the youngster accepts the chance offered, is elected, and then taking the bit in his teeth, defies the grafters and wins out in the face of fearful odds.

This is the story in a word, but around it are built up situations so realistic that one almost forgets they are unreal, remembering incidents right here in this city's political life. There is plenty of humor of a very kind, with enough love-making to lessen the gloom and tone down the ruggedness of battle.

In the cast, in which there is no real weak link, Ray Scott, as the young Mayor, held the center of the stage, but to Mr. Rapley Holmes, as Horrigan, and to Mr. Harry Harlow, as Phelan, belong scarcely less of praise.

Mr. Deming, as Perry, and Miss Chapman, as Cynthia, the young lovers, were excellent. The play was directed by Mr. Parker did a really excellent bit of acting in the last act.

Those who fail to see the play deserve the fate of the youngster who had the door shut in their faces, for it is strong, clever, well presented and full to running over with what newswriters would call "human interest."

A word to the wise—See it. "The Man of the Hour" will be presented to-night and to-morrow at matinee and night. L. N. U.

"Playing the Ponies." As a loud, roaring knockdown musical comedy, "Playing the Ponies" is "it." The men of York and Adams, the big two, are so well known that it is not necessary to say anything about them; just to think of them is enough to make any one (even the old maid) laugh. Unlike the average so-called musical comedy, "Playing the Ponies" has enough plot in it to make it interesting as well as funny.

The first act shows Sheephead Bay race-track during the exciting times of a race, and the end of the act a real horse appears on the scene. It made one think that they were "playing the ponies" in reality.

The music was catchy and most of the songs new, and would, no doubt, have been quite a treat had there been any voices to help out. Madge Lawrence, as Vera Montford, was worth watching, and Miss De Wolfe, as Mame, was good and rather good-looking. Special mention is also due Edna Reming, who played the part of Grace Honey.

The main feature of the show is the pony ballet. The girls are lively-looking little creatures and had very pretty faces, but their costumes looked as if they had seen better days, and bore evidence of much use. The new and new seemed to laugh itself happy and to be well pleased.

"Playing the Ponies" will long be remembered as one of the best of the musical numbers in the Bijou variety. L. F.

"East Lynne" Coulog. "East Lynne" will be presented at the Academy on Saturday, matinee and night, by Joseph King's excellent company. The American public to-day finds greatest delight in the drama that has a big human note, that deals with elemental passions and sorrows, and that tells a gripping, vital story. It is a rare relief. You know "East Lynne" contains these elements. How often have you said, "I would like to see it played by a good company." At the Majestic.

The Majestic started the week yesterday with a new bill, which included many clever turns and new pictures, and many excellent singers and dancers on the program.

BYRD LAW FOOLS SALOON-KEEPERS

Many Close at Sunset, While Others Profit by Early Man's Ignorance.

Anxious lest they clash with the provisions of the Byrd law as to closing on the day before election, a number of the saloon-keepers of the city, in order to run no chances, closed their bars yesterday evening promptly at 5:11 o'clock, the hour of sunset, thereby disappointing a number of their regular customers, who rushed down at the last moment to lay in a supply to tide them over the dry day, only to find to their deep consternation that they were on the outside looking in.

This, as does any other question near election time, brought forth a "heated argument," as the newspaper writers say, some holding that the bar-keepers had the thing down right, while others vehemently declared that Mr. Byrd had no intention when he drafted his bill of pasting it on too thick, arguing that 6 o'clock was the time.

Before any one entirely lost his temper some resourceful member of the groups would suggest that they try another bar before the last hope was lost. So the coterie, with anticipation of a dry day on the morrow, would move on.

It was up to the resourceful ones ere the search was ended to lean comfortably on the counter and say: "I told you so." Looking out for just such a condition of affairs, a throng of saloon-keepers, which included the majority of those in the city, had previously consulted legal lights on the subject, who promptly declared that they need not put on the lock until the clock struck 6. Therefore, a reward for their enterprise, they did a humming business during the last moments, not only in drinks, but in pints and quarts, to relieve throats which would otherwise parch with exceeding dryness for the next twenty-four hours.

Mr. E. H. Fitzhugh, vice-president of the Grand Trunk Railway system of Canada, with offices in Montreal, with his two daughters, his son, E. H. Fitzhugh, Jr., and his secretary, Mr. C. P. Riddell, are registered at the Jefferson Hotel.

Mr. Fitzhugh's trip to Virginia is solely one of recreation. He will leave here to-morrow for Hot Springs, where the party will spend several days. He comes to this State once or twice every year and finds the climate very beneficial. Like other visitors to the United States, Mr. Fitzhugh is much interested in the presidential election, but says that it will have little effect on business in the Dominion of Canada no matter how it goes.
